Locks Edge, LLC Lucy Tidd

Locks Edge is a state of the art dressage training center on 57 acres in the Poolesville area of Montgomery County. It offers airy stalls with natural lighting, a dust-free indoor and large outdoor areas. The experienced staff focuses on excellent care, exercise and feeding for boarded animals.

As a veterinarian, life-long rider, and accomplished FEI competitor, Lucy was thrilled to find this property in 2015. Growing up on a horse farm in upstate New York, she has wanted to find an equestrian property of her own in this area for many years. An extensive renovation of the existing barn and the addition of an indoor arena and new outdoor arena took many months to complete but have more than exceeded her goals.

Locks Edge is also serious about taking care of its natural resources. Some of the best management practices installed include a forest management plan, rotation of hay fields, a pond, 9,739 feet of pasture fencing, a lined waterway, prescribed grazing, and a heavy use pad among other practices. The facility sets a high standard for conservation which adds to the beauty of rural Montgomery County.
